GLEBE
 Noted for its quirky bohemian vibe, Glebe is one of Sydney's most vibrant and charming fringe precincts. The village boasts a significant café and restaurant culture where diners can choose from exquisite contemporary cuisine to international food styles representing over 15 different countries. Discerning readers and art lovers are also drawn to the area with award winning bookstores and more than a sprinkling of fantastic galleries. This colourful environment is further enhanced every Saturday with one of the most popular markets in Sydney. No more than 10 minutes from the city by bus, Glebe promises to delight the senses.

Check out www.glebe.com.au for latest news and events including information on the popular Glebe Street Fair on the third Sunday of November each year.

While in the area, why not check out the Wireless House sonic art project in the recently renewed Foley Park?

Designed by sculptor and sound artist Dr Nigel Helyer, the Wireless House sonic art project celebrates Glebe's history and this small but unique building which once housed a free wireless radio from the 1930s to the 1960's.

Foley Park also offers a free wireless internet hot-spot so bring your iPhone or laptop and log in!
